Introduction

We created our RVP Business Development Template (BDT) to understand our client firms better when building out their overall marketing plan. We found that when our firms completed the RVP Business Development Template, they walked away with a better understanding of their own sales team, helping them develop a more connected marketing strategy.

Our template helps you and your organization better align your sales and marketing teams to help you develop marketing strategies to reach the overall firm's goals.

Sales Goal

It's easier to start with a goal, we all know where we want to be, we just need a plan to get there. Most firms base their goals on either target premium or revenue. For consistency, we will use total production throughout the template.

Total Production

Type of Business

Identifying how much of your business will come from traditional brokerage and point of sale business is essential. Knowing where your business will come from will help you align with the correct target markets.

Performance Metrics

Are you incrementally reaching your goal? Your performance metrics will help you keep track of where you need to be on a weekly, monthly, and quarterly basis. We use both metrics, so one case doesn't make or break your year.

Target Market

Whom you target will change what you talk about and how you talk about it. Identify which demographic groups you will focus on to generate business. If you currently target more than four markets, you should consider narrowing your focus.

Market Segmentation

Next, you'll need to segment your brokers/firms. List your most profitable segments in box A, your second most lucrative in box B, and so on.

Once you have your segments, fill in the details of each group.

Preferred Carriers, Products, & Sales Ideas

> You may manage two or more product lines, twenty or more carriers, with five or more products. Have you ever written down a list of your preferred carriers and products? This list will help create a consistent message from you and your firm. You may want to consider reviewing it as a team.

Goals:

01
Identify carriers & products to recommend.
02
Have a readily available list when asked.
03
Make sure your recommendation matches your firm's.

Sales Ideas

Whether you are just starting out or have been doing this for over ten years, writing out your sales ideas will prepare you for the unexpected. Being able to pivot quickly to a new idea or reference a topic you do not talk about often will create a sense of preparedness. This will help solidify your value as a trusted source.

Activity Goals

Your activity goals will help you identify what you need to do weekly and monthly to reach your performance metrics. These goals may need to be updated based on your performance metrics.

01. Proactive Phone Calls

These are proactive calls to your focus, existing, or prospective clients.

02. Quotes & UW Quick Quotes

Tracking your quotes and UWQQs will help you meet your performance metrics.

03. In-Person Appointments

In-person appointments help create strong relationships. Setting up annual in-person meetings may be important for top producers.

04. Firm/Office Presentations

Setting up office presentations sets you up as the go-to resource and creates collective buy-in.

05. POS Appointments

If POS is part of your business, consistently setting up client meetings will be essential to reaching your production goals.

Territories

Next, you'll need to group your firms and brokers into territories. If you focus on in-person calls, using geographic location is essential; you can organize based on the target market and market segments if you make virtual sales.
